Bed and Butter – a mouse click to the right bed

A new website arranges affordable overnight accommodation owned by private persons all over the world.

Berlin, 08.02.2010 – Based on the concept "Bed and Breakfast", a new website arranges affordable overnight accommodation owned by private persons all over the world. Not every holiday-maker can be classified as a hotel or youth hostel guest. Many people look for something special at affordable prices, want to experience the country and its people first hand and yet not do without the comforts of a hotel. They appreciate the many insider tips they get from private landlords. Apart from being able to earn a little extra money, private room providers enjoy the personal contact to travellers from all over the world. The new private room agency bedandbutter unites both parties. It has specialized in the professional arrangement of affordable short stay accommodation

On the website www.bedandbutter.de, travellers can already find offers from metropolises like Berlin, Frankfurt/M and New York, but new offers from other cities are being added. Bed & Bitter has no language barriers. The ad-free and user-friendly is in several languages and not only offers user guidance in German but also in English, Spanish and French. The landlords also state what languages they speak.

Travelling is fun. The same should go for planning a holiday. Anyone who used to have to visit countless websites of regional providers will be pleased about the extensive concept of the private accommodation agency. The particularly creative wiste places great value on user-friendliness. Guests can either select a simple or and advanced search. "Three clicks are enough for the traveller to find the right accommodation in no time at all" is how Miriam Sauermilch explains the functionality of the online accommodation agency.

Travellers have unrestricted and free access to the website www.bedandbutter.de and get all information from one site. Photos and ratings from previous guests help to find the right accommodation according to one's own taste. Some landlords even post a photo of themselves and some offer their guests tea, coffee, breakfast and/or joint use of the kitchen. Guests can select according to these search criteria and a displayed Google map shows the location. In addition, the advanced search enables the visitor to filter the accommodation very precisely if needed. A filter function can make it possible to look for rooms suitable for allergy sufferers or children, for example. Interesting objects are stored in the bookmarks. Payment is made by PayPal, which accepts all of the usual methods of payment from the EC card to the credit card, but also payment by direct debit.

A few clicks to the right accommodation – Bed and Butter opens the door and gate to your personal accommodation.

About Bed & Butter

Bed & Butter is a young start-up company based in Berlin and was established by Miriam Sauermilch in 2009. The accommodation agency provides private landlords the possibility to offer available rooms for a certain period in a fast and uncomplicated way on the website <http://www.bedandbutter.de>. Travellers can look for exactly the type of accommodation they need and book it on the website. The aim of the Bed & Breakfast concept is to arrange rooms, apartments and houses from private to private all over the world.
